EU: Consumers finally start spending, boosting growth

Private consumption in the euro area jumped by the most in two years in the third quarter, offering hope that shoppers are finally starting to power an economic recovery. Household expenditure increased 0.7% from the previous three months, while investments advanced by 2%, Eurostat said Friday. Trade was a drag, leaving overall growth at 0.4% — as reported in an initial estimate. Europe has long been expecting a boost from consumers as incomes grow, inflation cools and interest rates fall. Price growth temporarily dipped below 2% in September. The European Central Bank expects it to durably meet that goal in 2025. Wages, meanwhile, have risen strongly following the inflation spike in recent years. Data later Friday from the ECB showed third-quarter compensation per employee rose by 4.4% from a year ago, down from 4.8% in the previous period but still elevated. (Bloomberg)

US: Job growth rebounds in November but unemployment rate ticks up

US job growth surged in November after being severely hindered by hurricanes and strikes, but a rise in the unemployment rate to 4.2% pointed to an easing labour market that should allow the Federal Reserve to cut interest rates again this month. The labour market's resilience is driving the economy, with the closely watched employment report from the Labor Department on Friday showing solid wage growth last month. The economy created 56,000 more jobs in September and October than previously estimated. "Today's payroll report reinforces the case for a Fed cut in December, but without inciting any meaningful worries about the labour market," said Seema Shah, chief global strategist at Principal Asset Management. Nonfarm payrolls increased by 227,000 jobs last month after rising by an upwardly revised 36,000 in October, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said. Economists polled by Reuters had forecast payrolls would gain 200,000 jobs following a previously reported rise of 12,000 in October. (Reuters)

US: Wall Street adds to stock, rate cut bets after 'Thanksgiving buffet' jobs data

Global stocks advanced on Friday as investors raised their bets on the prospect of a US interest rate cut this month, after payrolls data showed strong job growth in November, while the euro dipped against the dollar as political turmoil gripped France. Futures markets put an 85% chance on the US Federal Reserve (Fed) cutting rates by 25 basis points at its Dec 17-18 meeting after the data, compared with 68% earlier in the session. Non-farm payrolls increased by 227,000 jobs last month after rising an upwardly revised 36,000 in October, in a month hit by hurricanes and strikes. Economists polled by Reuters had forecast payrolls accelerating by 200,000 jobs. (Reuters)

Malaysia: BNM's international reserves rose to US$118.3bn as at Nov 29

Malaysia's international reserves stood at US$118.3bn as at Nov 29, 2024, compared with US$118.0bn on Nov 15. The reserves position was sufficient to finance 4.6 months of imports of goods and services, and was 0.9 times the total short-term external debt, Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) said in a statement on Friday. The main components of the reserves were foreign currency reserves (US$105.4bn), the International Monetary Fund reserves position (US$1.3 billion), special drawing rights (SDRs) (US$5.9bn), gold (US$3.3bn), and other reserve assets (US$2.4bn). (Bernama)
